THE LONDON NECROPOLIS,

EXPLANATIONS OF TECHNICAL
TERMS USED IN THIS LIST

- SHELL. The Inner Coffin, which can be supplied at once. Its immediate use is often imperative.
- CASE or CASKET. The Outer Coffin, to receive Shell.
- LEAD COFFINS. Essential for interment in Vaults or Mansoleums, or for long distance journeys.
- " EARTH TO EARTH " COFFINS. Possess the apparent strength, solidity, and other qualities of a Solid Coffin, yet differ in this important respect, namely: That while the latter interferes with the natural dissolution of the body, the former promotes its disintegration and absorption, thus effectually carrying out the sanitary principle of " Earth to Earth " burial.
- RE-FORMED FUNERAL COMPANY. Under the system of Funeral Reform inaugurated by the LONDON NECROPOLIS COMPANY, the cortege may be dispensed with, and the Mourners, in lieu of meeting at the residence of the deceased, assemble at the Company's Private Station in the Westminster Bridge Road, where separate waiting rooms are reserved for each Funeral.

The Company desire to call special attention to the Mortuary Accommodation at their Private Station, Westminster Bridge Road Station, which is available, pending the completion of the arrangements for Funeral.

London, Woking, and Brookwood.
